NEWS RELEASE

Lee Enterprises will buy all of Sioux City Journal

DAVENPORT, Iowa (June 6, 2002) -- Lee Enterprises, Incorporated (NYSE: LEE), announced plans today to purchase the remaining 50 percent interest in the Sioux City Journal in Sioux City, Iowa, from the operating partner, a subsidiary of The Hagadone Corporation.

The transaction, which is expected to be completed within 30 days, is valued at $60.3 million. Lee has agreed to pay $59.3 million in cash and give Hagadone ownership of a group of weekly publications in northwestern Montana.

The Sioux City Journal has 165 employees and daily circulation of 42,800. Lee acquired its current 50 percent interest through the purchase of Howard Publications in April.

Mary Junck, Lee's chairman and chief executive officer, said the Sioux City acquisition follows Lee's core strategy of focusing on daily newspapers in midsized markets. "We're fortunate that Hagadone, in deciding to sell, has given us the opportunity to operate another outstanding community newspaper serving a healthy, local market," she said. "We look forward to applying the same revenue and readership initiatives that have worked well for the rest of our 45 daily newspapers. We also look forward to working with the talented people on the Sioux City Journal staff."

She said revenue and readership initiatives will include aggressive advertising sales, circulation growth and expansion of online services.

Junck said the acquisition is expected to be accretive to earnings in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, 2002. The transaction values the Sioux City Journal at about 11.5 times anticipated annual incremental EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization) for calendar year 2002. Junck said Lee will recognize a loss of approximately $5.2 million on the disposition of the weekly publications.

Duane B. Hagadone, president of The Hagadone Corporation, said the decision to sell was difficult but timely. "We've been exceptionally proud of the Sioux City Journal and its people, and we've enjoyed making a meaningful contribution to the community," he said. "At the same time, we can think of no better successor than Lee Enterprises, so we know we're leaving the newspaper in the best hands possible. It's an exciting, growing newspaper company with a great future."

He said addition of Lee's weeklies in the Flathead Lake region of northwest Montana will complement Hagadone's newspaper in Kalispell, the Daily Inter Lake.

Those weekly publications include six newspapers - the Hungry Horse News in Columbia Falls (6,500 circulation), Lake County Leader (5,600) in Polson, Whitefish Pilot (4,000), Bigfork Eagle (1,600), Clark Fork Valley Press (1,500) in Plains, and the Mineral County Independent (1,100) in St. Regis. The group also includes a shopper in Polson and a non-paid weekly newspaper in Lakeside.

"With the addition of these publications," Duane Hagadone said, "we'll be able to extend our reach in the region, provide more advertising options for our customers and create growth opportunities for our new employees. It's a win-win for everyone."

The Hagadone Corporation is based in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and operates daily newspapers in Idaho, Iowa, Montana, Washington and Wisconsin. More information about its publications and other businesses is available at www.hagadone.com.

Lee Enterprises is based in Davenport, Iowa. Lee's purchase of Howard Publications in April included 15 daily newspapers, as well as Howard's 50 percent interest in the Sioux City Journal. Lee currently owns 38 daily newspapers and a joint interest in seven others. Lee also owns nearly 200 weekly newspapers, shoppers and classified and specialty publications, along with associated online services. Its stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol LEE. More information about Lee Enterprises is available at www.lee.net.
